Serviced offices are no more 'alternate workspaces' in Delhi and NCR with an increasing number of corporate houses and startups embracing the concept.

"By 2020, more than half of the flexible office growth is speculated to be driven by enterprises in India. This is, in fact, against the initial predominance of startups in the segment," says Gaurav Bhalla, MD, Vatika Hotels.

Vatika Business Centre (VBC) eases its clients' work by giving them dedicated SPOC (single point of contact), personalised call answering services by a professionally trained concierge team and an in-house live-cooking cafeteria among others. The brand offers an array of benefits including baseline services and advanced services like taxation, registration and legal compliances, IT support, concierge services, and HR support.

There is a sizeable share of technology and tech-assisted equipment across all its locations. From on-the-go service booking, socialising and staying updated via VBC app to using digital door locks, free WiFi and more, the company offers it all. With True Caller powered visitor management, the brand has reshaped security at all its locations. It is planning to bring automation and high-tech equipment to its meeting rooms, boardrooms and reception areas. Largely, manual assistance will be replaced with voice command-based actions and meetings will be held over digital flipcharts instead of traditional whiteboards.

ISO: 9001-2015 certified VBC goes with the commitment of providing premium office spaces at key locations, top-notch buildings and strong business support services. The brand's offerings include ergonomically certified furniture, secured access to suites, privilege cards to clients, 24x7 security.

The company has its business centres in 20 key locations across nine prominent cities of India. Lately, it has opened doors at BKC, Mumbai and is looking forward to launching new business centres in Pune and New Delhi by December this year. The brand is all set to fulfil the continued rise in serviced office demand.
